

Woman Dies of Stabs at Party To Win Husband

Suitor With Whom She Quarreled After They Had Obtained Marriage License Accused of Wielding Knife

"Reunion" Surprise Fatal
Planned by Their Friends, and Each Invited Without Knowledge of the Other

Friends of Mary Brazofsky and Paul Pulkerwitz decided yesterday to heal the breach that developed between them weeks ago when Mary got a warrant for Paul because he beat her. They invited each, without the knowledge of the other, to attend a party at 381 Livonia Avenue, Brooklyn, last night, believing their mutual regard would be renewed at sight of each other.

It was not. According to those present at the reunion, the man drew his pocket knife, opened it and stabbed the woman fifteen times. She was dead when the police arrived, and two of the would-be reconcilers were wounded. One of them, Joseph Zielinski, at whose home the meeting was staged, is near death in St. Mary's Hospital, Brooklyn. Pulkerwitz's knife was protruding from Zielinski's abdomen when William Larkin, a neighbor, who suspected something unusual was going on, stepped into the apartment. Larkin started to withdraw the knife, but Zielinski pulled it out himself and handed it to him, asking him at the same time to detain Pulkerwitz and call the police.

With the assistance of Joseph Reko, of 1924 Douglass Street, Brooklyn, who had been stabbed in the thigh when the peace-makers' plans went awry, and David Lahrer, another neighbor, Larkin held Pulkerwitz until police came from the Liberty Avenue station. He was locked up there on a charge of homicide. Reko was detained for examination after his wound had been dressed.

According to the story obtained by the police and Assistant District Attorney John T. Hurley, Pulkerwitz and Mary Brazofsky, each of whom is forty-seven years old, had obtained a marriage license last May, after which they had lived happily together at 219 East Third Street until June 16, when the woman made the mistake of getting the warrant and then not appearing against her man in court.

The attack upon her last night was so sudden and caused such excitement that even the police were not sure whether it was inspired by the woman's refusal to return to Pulkerwitz or by his rage at discovering her in the home of another man. It was said the woman had been invited to the Livonia Avenue house by a Mrs. Levine, whose home is in the Bath Beach section of Brooklyn, and did not know that she was to meet Pulkerwitz there.

Six Accused of Robbing Firm to Set Up Rival

3 Former Employees Bought Goods of Trio Who Remained at Work, Police Charge

Six persons were arrested yesterday charged with stealing enough goods from the Brooklyn Coat & Apron Company, of 855 Myrtle Avenue, Brooklyn, to start them in business. The prisoners are Joseph Eisenberg, of 645 Fulton Street; Edward Ponoyon, 659 Marcy Avenue; Samuel Potway, 123 Tompkins Avenue; Mos Braderman, 467 Jefferson Avenue, his brother, Jacob Braderman, 400 Mason Street and Miss Pauline Josephs, 231 Stanton Street, Manhattan.

Eisenberg is superintendent of the company, and the others have at some time been employed there. Three are still in the employ of the company. It is charged that the first three after stealing the goods started in business under the name of the Long Island Coat & Apron Company, with offices at 1849 Fulton Street. The other three, the police say, sold goods to the first trio. Detectives Hemminger and Knowles said they found more than $10,000 worth of merchandise at the Fulton Street address, which was identified as the property of the Brooklyn Coat & Apron Company.

With the exception of Eisenberg, the prisoners, according to the police, have confessed. They were held in $1,000 bail each for hearing Tuesday by Magistrate Fish in the Bridge Plaza Court.

Rejected Suitor Drinks Poison at Woman's Door

Police Save Life, Then Arrest Him on Complaint of Object of His Affections

Mrs. Helen Fisher, at whose door at 502 West Forty-second Street Leonard Cathrin, a rejected suitor, tried to end his life last night, went to the West Thirtieth Street police station after the incident to make a complaint against him for annoying her. She was told to go to Jefferson Market police court to-day. Cathrin is in Bellevue Hospital and will recover.

In spite of the fact that Mrs. Fisher had refused him and married her present husband, Cathrin was continually turning up unexpectedly, she said, and begging her to elope with him. Yesterday, she said, he met her on the street and said he was going to kill himself if she slighted him again. At 7 p. m. there was a knock at Mrs. Fisher's door.

"Let me in," cried Cathrin. "I want to see you for the last time. If you don't let me in I'll kill myself." Mrs. Fisher ran to the window and shrieked for help. A patrolman found Cathrin and an empty iodine bottle on her doormat. He administered an emetic and saved the man's life. Cathrin lives at 940 Washington Avenue, the Bronx.

Takes Poison on Train

STAMFORD, Conn., July 15.—The Colonial Express from Washington over the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad was stopped here late this afternoon, and Mrs. Margaret Uppercase, of 53 Randolph Place N. W., Washington, was removed from it and taken to the hospital suffering from poison. She had taken three and a half ounces of a preparation commonly used as a liniment.

With her were Mrs. Rose Erdmann, of 3627 West North Avenue, Baltimore, and two young women and a young man. It was said by the others that Mrs. Uppercase complained of a headache and said she intended to take quinine. She was found, ill, in the lavatory.

Cleared of 5-Year-Old Charge
LOCKPORT, N. Y., July 15.—Allen T. Stunt, former Niagara Falls lawyer and now member of the Florida House of Representatives, was exonerated of a charge of grand larceny in the County Court to-day. The accusation, five years old, was dismissed by County Judge Hickey.

Michaelis Sails Hopeful For Germany's Future

News That George Washington Would Remain Wet Caused Rush for Passage

Dr. George Michaelis, one time chancellor of Germany, who has been visiting in the United States, sailed yesterday for Bremen on the steamship George Washington of the United States Lines, accompanied by Mrs. Michaelis.

He said he was aware that reports of political dissension in Germany were alarming, but he expressed the belief that conditions would right themselves in time. He said that he was not in a position to discuss German affairs, but might be able to be more communicative on his return as he planned to confer with many persons of power in Germany on his arrival there.

The George Washington carried a large list of travellers. Officials of the line said they had been swamped for transportation aboard the vessel when it became known definitely that she would continue to be a wet ship.

When the vessel had straightened out in the North River and was on her way to sea, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Newton, of Harrisburg, Pa., arrived at the pier with their two children and were sent out in a tug to overhaul the liner. They were taken aboard of the Statue of Liberty.

Among others on the Washington were Representative M. B. Madden, of Illinois; Judge Charles J. Martin, of New Haven; Karl K. Kitchen, Mr. and Mrs. H. M. Jewett, Mrs. Ira E. Bennett, Outerbridge Horsey, A. D. Call and Warren F. Purdy.

234 Killed in Accidents Here During June

Safety Institute Statistics Show Majority of Fatalities Are Due to Carelessness; 61 Are Drowned

113 Children Are Victims
Permanent Campaign Is On to Educate Public Against All Unnecessary Risks

New Yorkers' proverbial carelessness resulted in the death of 234 persons in June, according to records of accidental deaths in the five boroughs of New York City, just published by the Safety Institute of America. No similar statistics have previously been collected, and the publication of them by the institute is a step in its permanent safety campaign for the education of the public in matters of safety. The institute in the past has issued records of industrial accidents, but since the appalling increase of public accidents, comprising those on highways, streets and in homes, it considers it a duty to make known also the facts on accidental deaths, primarily due to carelessness. In June there were twelve industrial against 234 accidents in New York, while the relation between the two for the last year, covering the whole country, was 2 to 1, or 22,000 against 28,000 killed. One hundred and thirteen children under sixteen were killed in accidents in June in the five boroughs. Of these fifty-four were killed by automobiles, ten by falls from windows and fire escapes, and the remainder by various other causes, including drowning. Traffic accidents reached ninety-four killed, the sea took a toll of seventy-one persons, forty of whom were drowned in the storm of June 11. The following figures cover the distribution of deaths among the five boroughs:

Killed by traffic accidents in the month of June:

Manhattan	27
Kings	32
Brooklyn	18
Queens	7
Richmond	1
Total	85

Died by drowning in the month of June:

Manhattan	26
Kings	19
Brooklyn	14
Queens	4
Total	63

Thirteen died by asphyxiation in New York in June. The Borough of Richmond was the only one in which no deaths occurred from asphyxiation or falls.

Ferris Wheel Toll Left Out
Deaths due to the collapse of the Ferris Wheel in the Bronx on June 11 are not included in the report, as the institute considers that accident due to negligence, and not to an act of God. The responsibility for the many deaths must be laid upon one of three parties, the builders, the operator or the passengers in the cars, for all three, according to L. V. Coleman, director of the institute, had received notice of the advancing storm.

The Board of Education the institute expects to establish further courses which will eventually result in a considerable decrease of the number of children killed by accidents.

Suggests Whipping Post For Women's Annoyers

"We could use a whipping post for your kind," said Magistrate Brown in the Gates Avenue Court, Brooklyn, yesterday to two young men who pleaded guilty to annoying women in Tompkins Square Park.

The men said they were George Engle, 61 Floyd Street, and Henry Krakower, 350 1/2 Madison Street. Patrolman Faure said that as the men passed a bench where two women were sitting they said: "Hello, Sweetie, nice evening." He then arrested them.

Magistrate Brown, in committing them to Raymond Street Jail for sentence next Tuesday, said: "I intend to make Brooklyn safe and decent for married women and girls. This thing has got to stop. I'm going to hold you two in the Raymond Street Jail where you can't get bail until Tuesday."

Women, With Children, Who Stole Escape Jail

Court Releases Two Shoplifters Because of Families; Two Others Get 5 Months

Two women who pleaded guilty yesterday in Special Sessions to shoplifting, while accompanied by small children, were liberated on paying fines because of their families. Justices Freschi, Healy and Herbert told the women that if the offense was repeated they would be given jail sentences. Two other married women received sentences of five months each in the workhouse for store thefts. All were arrested by the Stores Mutual Protective Association.

Mrs. Lean Krawki, thirty-two years old, of Cedarhurst, L. I., admitted that she stole bracelets, hairpins and similar articles from a Broadway department store. Miss May Mangan, the probation officer, told the court that the woman worked in concert with her seven-year-old daughter. The child was released from the Children's Society when the mother paid a fine of $100.

Mrs. Anna Schmidt, of 822 Park Avenue, Hoboken, N. J., acknowledged that she and her fifteen-year-old daughter, Ethel, stole two dresses from a store on East Twenty-fourth Street. The mother was fined $10 and the daughter sent to the Children's Court. Mrs. Dorothy Femmel and Mrs. Grace Carr, both of 34 East Twenty-second Street, admitted stealing a handbag from a Fifth Avenue store. Miss Mangan told the court that both women were drug addicts. They were sent to the Workhouse for five months, where they will receive treatment.

Major General Simms was Chaplain-in-Chief of the British Expeditionary Forces and afterward Moderator of the General Assembly of the Irish Presbyterian Church.

Bather Drowns With Girl Whom He Tried to Rescue

Sinks After Going to Aid Two Struggling in Water Near Atlantic Highlands

ASBURY PARK, N. J., July 15.—Fred Pfeifer, twenty years old, and Lillian Lane, eighteen, were drowned this afternoon while bathing off the Sandy Hook government reservation near Atlantic Highlands. Pfeifer lost his life in an attempt to save Miss Lane and another girl. He went to their aid when they called, and sank with Miss Lane as he struggled to drag her to safety. The other girl was rescued.

The two were members of a camping party. The bodies were recovered and sent to Long Branch. Pfeifer lived at 358 Elm Street, Newark. Miss Lane's home was at Lyndhurst.
